

I am not in support of the FCC implementing any proposal to lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law Protections. My life has improved dramatically since I do not now receive even one solicitation by telephone. I can actually read one page in a good book, listen to at least one movement of a Mozart symphony, and even spend more than 1/2 hour holding and interacting with my grandson without being interrupted by a "computerized impersonal call". My only other option before implementation of this privacy procedure was to unplug my phone and that is not satisfactory because I do NOT want to miss calls from my family. I ask you to please leave Indiana's Telephone Privacy as it is. Thank you. David J. Lyman, Bloomington. Indiana
